The intention of the survey was to collect valid data from the whole spectrum of the readers of the TIPA-magazines.

A basic questionnaire was used for the purpose of comparability and to incorporate the results.

For 21 magazines an online-survey with identical questionnaire was published on https://presseforschung.de.
1. Skeleton Data
Synopsis

Coordinated readership survey with self-administered questionnaires. Parallel online-survey for 21 magazines.

Duration: October 31\textsuperscript{th} 2016 – February 04\textsuperscript{th} 2017

Participants: 23 magazines from 13 countries

Total returns \hspace{1em} N = \hspace{1em} 6 821
Analysed returns: \hspace{1em} Na = \hspace{1em} 6 767

Returns by mail: 28.4 \%
Returns by fax: \hspace{1em} 1.9 \%
Returns online: \hspace{1em} 69.7 \%

Implementation of the survey - concept, recording, analysis:
WIP Wissenschaftliches Institut für Presseforschung und Medienberatung, Cologne
1. Skeleton Data Method

The returns for each magazine were recorded separately. On average, each magazine achieved a return rate of 295 questionnaires.

The initial focus was always on the overall results which flowed into the results for all magazines. Where appropriate, WIP differentiated between the magazines by region:

- Central Europe
  France, Netherlands, Great Britain, Germany

- Southern Europe
  Greece, Hungary, Italy, Spain,

- Northern America
  Canada, USA

- Other Countries
  Australia, Brazil, India

Initial comment: In the surveys the readers often left questions unanswered. The results with the personal information are presented without these missing data and extrapolated to 100%.

• The readers of the TIPA-magazines are predominantly male. Only nearly every sixth reader is female.

• The average reader is 49.3 years old. On average, the women are younger than the men (42.6 to 50.7 years). 46 percent of the readers are younger than 50 years of age.

• 62.8 percent of the readers reported a net monthly household income which is more than the OECD-Mean of their country. 39.7 percent of the readers reported more than 150 percent, 20.6 percent of the readers reported more than 200 percent of the OECD-Mean.

4. Information Sources
Overall Results

• Seen objectively, photo magazines are the most important sources of information for the readers. Fully 91 per cent of the respondents say they regularly obtain information from this source.

• The internet is the second most important source. 89 per cent of the readers said they regularly use it. Trade fairs and the readers’ specialist retailer follow.

• Less than every eighth reader uses other magazines than photo magazines to obtain information about photographic equipment.

• The readers rely mostly on the photo magazines. 46.4 per cent of respondents said they trust in this source of information the most.

• The internet, very important as a source of information, enjoys a high level of confidence for 21.7 per cent of the readers. The retailers follow in third place with 10.0 per cent of responses.

• 14.2 per cent of the readers did not give an unambiguous answer.

• The ratings of credibility for other magazines are very poor (< 2 per cent).
